THE REMEDY IS A CEMETERY

The man who demanded a "lodge in the vast wilderness" has nothing on the person who writes me, complaining about the alleged noise nuisance in Richmond.

After carefully perusing the communication I am forced to the conclusion that its author has small, if any use for discordant sounds, and craves some place where only the music of the spheres is audible.

This being an industrial city and the prospects being extremely bright that sound and noise will increase with its growth, it is difficult to suggest a remedy. The best I can do under the circumstances is to recommend a nice cemetery in some remote spot where railroad whistles and the blare of radios do not penetrate.

However I know how a fellow feels when he has something on his chest, so being a good Samaritan I am going to let him have his say. Here is his plaint:

OBJECTS TO NOISE

"How about an anti-noise campaign in this fair city?"

"Recently New York inaugurated a successful campaign against useless noises. A device was used that accurately measured to a fraction the various noises that made the day hideous and filled the nights with means or sleepless citizenry. If such a machine were brought to Richmond the odds are one to ten that it would be wrecked by the volume of sound before it was in use for an hour."

AVANT THE RADIO

At the key point of this campaign, I suggest that you do something—all newspapermen are doing something at some time or other—about radios. I'll admit that the radio is a God-send in many ways. (Continued On Page 8)

DeKoster was arrested on charges of plant officials. He was arrested at the factory.

S. F. DOCK DISPUTE IS SETTLED

KIDNAPING SLAYING OF GIRL PROBED

NEW YORK, April 18.—UP

A polite motorist enticed Miss Mildred McCabe, 39, into his automobile today and sped away with her. Later he threw her lifeless, almost-nude body under a tree in a Queensboro park.

It was New York's second sex crime within two weeks. Mrs. Nancy Evans Witterton, authoress and wife of a radio executive, was attacked and killed a week ago yesterday in her skyscraper apartment. Her killer has not been apprehended.

THREE SUSPECTS HELD

Police arrested three suspects an hour after Miss McCabe's body reached the morgue, but none was charged with the crime.

Mrs. Anna Scanlon, room-mate and sister of the victim, identified the body. She will know the slayer, she told police.

OFFERED RIDE HOME

Mrs. Scanlon told police she and her sister were dining in a Jamaica lunch room shortly after midnight when a man whose demeanor was so pleasant that they accepted his company, joined them at their table.

Politely, he offered to drive them home, she said, and they accepted. But in the automobile it was a different story. (Continued on Page 8)

Child Star Is In Middle Of Legal Battle

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—UP—Freddie Bartholomew, curly-haired motion picture child star, was caught in the middle of a legal tug-of-war tonight as his mother, Mrs. Lillian Mae Bartholomew, filed formal demands to wrest him from control of his aunt, Millicent Mary Bartholomew.

The move, filed in the Los Angeles Superior court, was somewhat of a surprise.

Today was to have been a day of happy reunion for the Bartholomews, thousands of miles from their British homes. Freddie was to have met his mother, whom he has not seen at least since last October. His paternal grandparents also were to be on hand.

Instead the 12-year-old boy actor and his aunt, his legal guardian in California, remained in seclusion and the mother went ahead with the original purpose of her trip across the Atlantic and the continent, by instituting a court battle for his custody.

Grand Jury To Resume Probe Of Finances

SACRAMENTO, April 17.—UP—Reopening of an investigation into state financial affairs was indicated today when District Attorney Otis D. Babcock issued subpoenas ordering A. E. Stockburger, state finance director, and Fred W. Links, superintendent of accounts, to appear before the county grand jury Tuesday.

They were ordered to produce all records of the finance department's office. Babcock said he was "tired of evasive answers from Stockburger and Links every time my auditor asks to see the reports." He indicated he was particularly interested in the interest accounts of the state treasurer's office.

Son Demands Inquiry

CONTENDING HIS parents were victims of a murder plot, John Moriarty, center, demanded a full investigation of their death. Mrs. Moriarty, left, and her husband, William Moriarty, University of Southern California professor, were killed when a bomb wrecked their automobile near Los Angeles.

Pay Patients For Hospital Farm Urged

MARTINEZ, April 18.—Concord Farm Center today was circulating petitions seeking to have placed on the November ballot a proposal that would require county hospitals to receive pay patients.

Recently, the Kern county superior court held pay patients could not be accepted for county hospitalization. On an appeal, higher courts upheld the decision.

Supervisors of San Joaquin county have ignored the ruling and say they will continue to follow a 23-year-old policy of accepting pay patients in the county institution. The Concord Farm Center approves the policy and is co-operating in a statewide move seeking to have the part pay plan placed on the ballot for an expression of voters.

Formation Of Water District Will Be Pushed

MARTINEZ, April 18.—Determination to prosecute a vigorous formation of a water district was launched last night at a largely attended meeting in the supervisors' chambers in the Hall of Records, with formation of the Contra Costa Conduit Association.

Anthony Crafton of Ygnacio Valley was elected chairman and L. E. Mullin of Martinez, secretary-treasurer of the organization. C. W. Scheller of Pittsburg, Attorney Thomas M. Carlson and Harry Hale of Ygnacio Valley were named as a committee on finance.

A committee of three will be named by Chairman Crafton in each of the ten units of the proposed district to assume charge of the campaign. These committees will be announced within the next few days. Through them it is anticipated each section of the district will be thoroughly canvassed.

BERKELEY JURY DISAGREES

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—UP—After deliberating two days, a jury disagreed tonight on whether to find Busby Berkeley, swarthy film dance director, guilty or not guilty on second degree murder charges growing out of deaths of three persons in an automobile crash last September.

Mystery Death Of Pinole Man Is Under Probe

Richmond police and coroner's officers yesterday were investigating the death of Fred W. Harr, 65, Pinole rancher who was found shot to death in the garage in the rear of the home of his sister, Mrs. N. Hartnett, 407 Bissell avenue.

Harr died from gunshot wounds in the head. Police believe that the death was accidental.

WEAPON OPEN

Investigating officers were mystified by the fact that the shotgun that killed Harr was broken open when the weapon was found lying against the man's body. The weapon was a 12 gauge double-barrelled hammerless gun. There was one cartridge in the barrel.

Whether Harr was killed when he accidentally pulled the trigger while cleaning the gun or whether he dropped the weapon and it hit upon the cartridge was still in doubt yesterday.

SAW BLOOD

According to police Harr brought the gun down to his sister's home from Pinole. He was going to clean it and then loan it to a friend.

Harr took the gun out into the garage shortly after noon. John Hartnett, his brother-in-law and Mrs. Hartnett were out in the yard near the garage, but they told police that they did not hear a shot. First hint of the tragedy came when Mrs. Hartnett saw blood seeping from beneath the garage. (Continued On Page 8)

Firemen's Ball Is Attended By Record Crowd

What is believed to have been one of the largest crowds on record attended the sixteenth annual dance of the Richmond Fire Department held at East Shore Park.

Dancing was enjoyed from 7:30 P. M. until 1 A. M. this morning. Mayor and Mrs. W. W. Scott led the grand march at 8:45.

The dance hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion by H. J. Adolph and committee. Flowers were presented to the ladies. Music was furnished by a well known local orchestra. A committee in charge of the affair.

Birth Proves She Wasn't "Sterilized"

MARTINEZ, April 18.—One of the women who told county authorities a year ago she believed she had been sterilized under orders of Mrs. Ruth McCord, Contra Costa county relief director, gave birth to a child at the County Hospital here, it was announced today.

The mother is Mrs. Theresa Sweeney, who told District Attorney Francis P. Healey in March, 1935, that she had had no children since she underwent a "minor operation" at the hospital on orders of Mrs. McCord.

Friday night, however, Mrs. Sweeney gave birth to a baby girl. At the time of her statement a year ago she said she was "not certain" a sterilization operation had been performed.

Several women at the time charged they had been sterilized on orders of Mrs. McCord, who later fled from the county, was arrested in the Middle West, returned here and convicted on embezzlement charges. At present Mrs. McCord is free on bail pending an appeal to a higher court on her conviction.

Hoffman Sets Date To Hear McCarter Case

TRENTON, N. J., April 18.—UP—Governor Harold G. Hoffman's office indicated tonight that a date for the extradition hearing of Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, mother of California's sterilized heiress, will be set early next week.

Governor Frank P. Merriam, of California, has requested extradition of Mrs. Hewitt to face mayhem charges growing out of the sterilization of Ann Cooper Hewitt.

Matthew Brady, San Francisco district attorney, has requested that the hearing be set sufficiently far ahead to allow his office to be represented here.

Mrs. Hewitt is ill at Jersey City Medical Center from an overdose of sedative.

"PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS"

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—UP—Organization of the California "Progressive Democrats" got under way tonight with a convention here April 25 to consider a platform including a single house legislature, taxes based on ability to pay and farm marketing regulations.

AGREEMENT REACHED AT CONFERENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.

UP—Peace in San Francisco's strife-torn waterfront appeared assured tonight when an agreement for settlement of a current dispute was reached at a conference between employers and union longshoremen.

A three-point agreement was announced by the conference at 10:15 P. M. after a session that had started almost 12 hours earlier.

PREVENT SPREAD

Provision was made to prevent spread of the trouble to other Pacific Coast ports, a development which for a time had appeared likely. Shipowners agreed not to demand that union longshoremen load or unload cargoes of ships diverted from San Francisco harbor as a result of the local dispute.

The peace pact re-affirmed the national Longshore Arbitration Board awards of 1934, provided that all questions in dispute be presented to the local longshore labor relations committee and in event of a deadlock in that body to a federal arbitrator; and provided that all provisions of the award and all decisions of the labor relations committee and the arbitrator be performed by all parties.

DEADLINE IS SET

The San Francisco local of the I. L. A. was given until 8 A. M. April 22 to ratify the agreement.

Immediately upon ratification, the Waterfront Employers Association of San Francisco will resume their relations with Local 38-79 of the union and will immediately order longshoremen through the joint hiring hall.

McCord Case Ruling Now In High Court

MARTINEZ, April 18.—Judge A. F. Bray today approved the transcript of evidence to be used in the appeal of the prosecution from the ruling of the jurists in the Ruth McCord case, granting the defendant a new trial.

Mrs. McCord was convicted by a jury of having presented a false and fraudulent claim to the county. Upon argument for a new trial, Attorneys Thomas M. Carlson, Robert Collins of Richmond and Ralph Wright of Martinez contended that no offense had been committed. They based this argument on the (Continued On Page 8)

Three Entombed In Mine Alive

MIDDLE MUSQUODOBERT, N. S., Sunday, April 18.—UP—Communication was established early today through a five-inch hole was three men buried in an abandoned gold mine for six days. All were alive but critically weakened by thirst and starvation.

Miners said the men could not be removed from the mine in less than 48 hours, possibly not before three days.

Doctors were called to the mine head to prescribe food and medicines to be lowered to the prisoners, 140 feet under the surface, thru the slender hole made by a powerful diamond drill sent here by the provincial government.

Four Injured; 30 Escape In Car-Bus Crash

A Richmond police officer and members of his family sustained severe injuries and the lives of 30 persons were endangered in a spectacular collision between a passenger car and a motor coach at the east end of the Macdonald subway yesterday afternoon.

Police Officer Fay Hawkins, driver of one of the machines, sustained several broken ribs and other injuries.

WIFE SERIOUSLY HURT

Mrs. Fay Hawkins, his wife was the most seriously injured. She is suffering from a possible fractured right pelvis, cuts, bruises and shock.

The two Hawkins children, Ruth, 14 and Bobby, 8, suffered cuts and bruises.

All were treated at the Richmond Cottage Hospital by Dr. L. A. Hedges. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins will remain in the hospital for some time.

Wallace Acks Publicity On AAA Payments

WASHINGTON, April 18.—UP—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace reverting his earlier stand, tonight appealed for quick approval of the Vandenberg resolution for publicity on AAA payments of $10,000 or more.

When Senator Arthur Vandenberg, R., Mich., first submitted the suggestion, Wallace expressed reluctance to reveal the payment figures.

In reversal of that position, it was learned that Wallace has conferred by telephone with Chairman Ellison D. Smith, D. S. C., of the Senate agriculture committee which is considering the resolution.

Wallace asked that, if possible, the measure be approved next week. His position was that speedy approval of the resolution and consequent early submission of the lists would mean an end to what he characterized as "smuggling" by Republicans giving out, one by one, figures on huge payments made under AAA.

At the same time it was learned that AAA officials had undertaken extensive investigation to ascertain how news of certain payments has been "leaking out."

Louis M. Howe, Roosevelt Aide Taken By Death

WASHINGTON, April 18.—UP—Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to the President, died in naval hospital at 11:10 P. M. tonight after an illness of more than a year.

The news was communicated to President Roosevelt as soon as he returned to the White House from the semi-annual gridiron dinner. Howe had been one of the President's closest advisers and was regarded as a leading figure in the 1936 campaign in which Roosevelt won the election.

A White House announcement said Howe died of a heart and chest complication.

BREAKDOWN OF LEAGUE IS ADMITTED

By UNITED PRESS

Europe's hopes for an immediate arrangement for permanent peace were dimmed by developments Saturday. They included the following:

League negotiators at Geneva admitted their inability to arrange peace between Italy and Ethiopia, revealing that Mussolini demanded recognition of his right to retain the territory he has conquered in Ethiopia. Recognizing that this would undermine the entire foundation of the League, the negotiators threw up their hands and referred the problem back to the council.

PLEA TO HITLER

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin in a speech appealed to Adolf Hitler to drop his dictatorial tactics and cooperate with the other nations for peace, referring to him as the key man who can prevent war, followed by a plea for a universal agreement to apply military sanctions against a future aggressor would be the alternative.

Rome continued with its determination to conquer Ethiopia and a major battle was reported around Harar on the southern front, promising an early advance in Addis Ababa.

LEAGUE ADMITS DEFEAT

GENEVA, April 18.—UP—The League of Nations admitted today its failure to enforce peace between Italy and Ethiopia and received at the same time another urgent appeal for help from Emperor Haile Selassie.

Beck will be guided largely by what the 17 votes disclose in reaching a decision as to whether he (Continued on page 8)

Many Aspire To Justice's Job

MARTINEZ, April 18.—Speculation is rife here as to the successor of the late Judge L. P. Groves of San Pablo township, who passed away this week.

It is expected that the matter will be discussed and possibly determined by the Board of Supervisors at its meeting here Monday.

It is said that there are five or six aspirants for the position, but no one seems to know upon whom the judicial mantle will fall.

IN 3 EVENTS
BY U.W. CREWS

SEATTLE, April 18.—UP—Inspired by the Berlin Olympics, Washington swept to three successive victories over the California crews in the 33rd annual regatta on the Sheridan beach course this afternoon.

An estimated crowd of 50,000 spectators saw Coach Al Ulbrickson's great varsity whip the California crew by about two and a half lengths in the final main event of the day. The time was 15:56.4 for the three-mile course.

The Washington Frosh won the two-mile race by five lengths in 10 minutes and 11 seconds. The Husky Jayvee boat whipped the California Jayvees by seven lengths in 16:14.2 over the three-mile course.

The triple win was a magnificent tribute to Coaches Al Ulbrickson and Tom Bolles who teach the old Hiram Conibear long, smooth, powerful stroke.

MEMORIAL COLISEUM, Los Angeles, April 18.—UP—University of Southern California's powerful team of track and field athletes, pouring strength into almost every event, tonight spread-eagled a smaller and less evenly balanced Stanford University team in a dual meet, winning 86 1-2 to 44 1-2.

The State Board of Prison Inspectors, who, after weeks of wrangling, selected him as successor to Court Smith. The latter this week moved to San Quentin to take charge of the largest prison in the United States.

Folsom's convicts will notice little difference in the stature and in the policies of the man who succeeded the giant Smith, for Larkin too is six feet six inches tall—Smith's height—and he has been enforcing Smith's policies as captain of the guard and as chief disciplinarian for eight years.

OAKLAND, April 18.—UP—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Leo Leavitt, San Francisco boxing promoter, who was reported missing last Thursday, was solved today by Leavitt himself.

The promoter said it was all a mistake. He explained he left his Oakland office, where he had been working on promoting a boxing match at the Oakland auditorium next Wednesday for the benefit of crippled children in the Shrine Hospital and merely rested for a couple of days at Pismo Beach. Leavitt said he left a note for his secretary to call his wife, but the note apparently was lost. When he failed to return home, Mrs. Leavitt called police said that her husband and Frank Percassi, manager for Buddy Baer, main event for the show, had a fight over who would referee, and she feared Leavitt was struck on the head and was suffering from amnesia.

UNUSUAL FILM IS PRISONER OF SHARK ISLAND

The appeal of "The Prisoner of Shark Island" to woman is one of the elements of this unusual picture, which is being shown at the Fox, in company with "Snowed Under," a hilarious comedy romance starring George Brent, Frank McHugh, Glenda Farrell, Patricia Ellis and Genevieve Tobin.

The fierce drama of this type has always provided what, in the parlance of the motion picture industry, is known as "a man's picture," but despite its bold strokes of thrills and adventure the underlying motivation of the entire story is that of a woman's unshakable faith in the man she loves triumphing over staggering physical odds.

"The Prisoner of Shark Island" sketches in preliminary incidents rapidly and concisely saving its heavy artillery for Dr. Mudd's service on the island, Shark Island's grim impregnability, the doctor's futile attempts to escape and finally of the fever outbreak by means of which he was able to prove himself a hero and win a pardon. Baxter sacrifices his usual debonaire manner to give a magnificent performance of the persecuted medic. Other capable portrayals are those of Gloria Stuart as the loyal Mrs. Mudd; Harry Carey in the role of Fort Jefferson commandant; Francis Ford as a sadistic prison guard, and a fatback servant who leaves a wife and his pickaninies to follow Dr. Mudd to Shark Island.

A country lodge, a playwright, his divorced first wife, his alimony-seeking second divorced wife, a spoiled debutante in love with the play concealer, a dizzy sheriff seeking to arrest the playwright for non-payment of alimony. All of these are the laugh ingredients of "Snowed Under" Warner Brothers' hilarious bedtime story.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Members of the Securities and Exchange Commission are not saying much about it, but the rapid rise of the stock market is worrying them considerably.

Recently William O. Douglas, newest and most forthright SEC Commissioner, called in Frank Meehan, assistant director of the Trading Division. It is Meehan's job to detect pools or other violations of SEC rules on the Stock Exchange.

However, Douglas intimated in plain and pointed language that Meehan was not detecting them. The market is way over-priced, Douglas told him, and all sorts of under-cover pools are operating. "You've got to remember," he concluded, "that when the next crash comes, the SEC is going to be on the spot. We are the commission set up to protect the public, to prevent runaway markets."

"The Senate investigation of the Hoover crash will be mild compared with the next investigation. And you'll be the star witness. They'll say: 'Just where were you, Mr. Meehan, when such-and-such stocks sky-rocketed? Was it not your job, Mr. Meehan, to be in charge of the Trading Division? Were you not expected to prevent pool operations? Just what, if anything, did you do about it?'"

Not long afterward, Meehan resigned. He is now occupying desk space in the office of George Freen, one of the manipulators of the famous Sinclair oil pool, which during the days of the Coolidge boom market netted the participants a clean $12,000,000 without their putting up a cent.

NO TIME TO SHOP
Mrs. Roosevelt... has a unique reason for having all her clothes made in New York. "It is not that the styles and shops of Washington are inferior," she says, "it is because I have more time when I'm in New York. Down here I never have a minute."

EASTER RACKETS
The Easter egg-rolling on the White House lawn has come to be a racket for youngsters under ten years of age. A rule exists barring adults from the grounds unless accompanied by a child. This year scores of children did a thriving business as escorts for adults who wished to roll with the crowds but had no child. The average fee charged was twenty cents. One boy made seven dollars. Another egg-rolling racket is the practice of parents intentionally losing their children in the crowd to gain publicity. When a child becomes lost it is taken to the steps of the Executive Mansion and held up before the entire crowd by a White House aide, who announces the child's name over the microphone. Then, breathlessly, the parent rushes to reclaim the strayed infant, and bows to the applause of 50,000 onlookers.

WRONG "SH"
Dr. Leo S. Rowe, circumspet and completely moral director general of the Pan-American Union, was lunching with various ambassadors at the home of Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles. The talk touched upon a trip Dr. Rowe had taken to the mountains of Bolivia, where he visited a village famous for the most beautiful women in South America. However, Dr. Rowe, who is slightly deaf, thought the conversation still pertained to a trip he took up the Magdalena river to Bogota, Colombia, on a time new passenger ship.

"How did you like those Bolivian women, Doctor?" asked the Counselor of the Brazilian Embassy. "Oh, lovely," replied Dr. Rowe. "She was very, very fast, and oh, we had a beautiful time..."

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, April 18.—Members of the Critics Circle, gathered together in a small room at the Hotel Algonquin last week to give Maxwell Anderson the season's prize for his "Winterstet" had a somewhat seamy view of what a real, determined critical dissenter is like. Just before the dinner festivities started, a rather wild-eyed stranger appeared in the room, ostensibly one of the group of radio men busily installing wires and microphones. Burgess Meredith, one of the guests, became a little worried about the stranger and moved up to his side.

"This is a private dinner," he began warningly. "How much does it cost?" the dark-looking stranger muttered. Meredith popped out with what he thought would be a discouraging price, "Four dollars." The stranger stared at him. "I have four dollars." At this juncture Kelley Allen, one of the critical fraternity, barged in with the secondary line of defense. He asked the stranger his business.

"I write better plays than Maxwell Anderson ever thought of writing," the intruder calmly announced. "I came for the prize." They got rid of him without having to shoot.

TWINKLE—What new faces had the theatrical season brought to view? As usual, there were a group of young players who "stole the show" when least expected. Outstanding is Jeanne Danie, the 17-year old miss in "Call it a Day." The international stars, Philip Merivale and Gladys Cooper are the ones who received the billboard leads. But young Jeanne, who has been rated the "greatest instinctive actress of recent years," is really the one to turn the play into a hit. Wendy Hiller, a curly-headed, flaxen-haired girl from a Lancashire stock company in England, rose to overnight success with her playing in "Love On The Dole." They've compared her to Elizabeth Bergner, but although she's a talented actress, I think that's going much too far.

Peggy Conklin has definitely established herself as the most charming ingenue of the newer ranks. She did a fine piece of work in "The Petrified Forest" with Leslie Howard last season, and her present work in "Co-Respondent Unknown" clinches her position. Billy Haslop, the 12-year old youngster in "Dead End," Joyce Arling, the waitress in "Boy Meets Girl," and Eve Arden, of the "Follies," are more youngsters you'll be hearing from in the future.

Luckily, actors' heaven keeps being re-lit with stars.

SMELLS—Just off Chinatown is Mulberry Street redolent of old Italy. Here pushcarts loaded with green vegetables and fruits line the curbs, and pedestrians are crowded by the sidewalk stands of the shops. It is a street of foods, Cheeses and sausages of weird shapes and colors hang from sidewalk racks. Great vats of olives and open trays of sticky fruits stand outside doorways. Here you will find every kind of fish known to man as edible—from smelts to snails.

Early afternoon is the time when Mulberry Street is crowded with buyers. Foods strange to the American eye, fruits exotic in shape and color, attract customers who themselves add color to an already colorful scene.

A street of foods and smells, all mingling into something agreeably foreign.

TOPS—For the fourth time within the past year, the owner of the liquor store at Park Avenue and 89th street has successfully frustrated an attempted robbery by hurling bottles of champagne at the hold-up man.

A case where the best is none too good even for crooks.

At that moment, a door opened, and a short, obese, florid-faced man dressed in dinner clothes, stepped out into the hall. It was Emory Harding.

"Bruce," he exclaimed, coming forward and extending his hand, "I didn't expect you so soon. Benet must have made good time. Come into my room and have a spot with me before you wash up."

Court Battle Over Income Of Woman Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—UP—Federal Judge Frank Norcross today continued indefinitely the legal battle over the $1400 monthly income of Mrs. Mary Wells, 88, who recently moved from Oakland, Cal., to Portland, Ore.

Judge Norcross instructed John H. Hall, Portland attorney, to file a brief in the case stating he would rule without a further hearing if possible. Otherwise he will reopen the case. Hall said he was representing Mrs. Wells at his own expense.

Mrs. Wells was declared incompetent in Alameda county Superior court last September, on the ground she was under the influence of her chauffeur, Paul Weaver, 36. An Oregon court declared her competent.

Through Hall, she recently asked the federal court to release part of her income, impounded pending federal court decision on whether the California or the Oregon ruling should apply in the case.

Judge Norcross today ordered enough money released from the elderly woman's income to pay certain bills and provide for her sustenance during the period of litigation.

HE LED the way into the room and closed the door. When they were settled with a pair of drinks, Kirby smiled.

"You're a deuced provocative host," he said. "First, your invitation is something with mystery and unattainability, and then, I no sooner arrive at this ominous place called Skeleton Island than I find a lady detective among those present for the express purpose of guarding your daughter's life, which, it seems, has been threatened. Are you plotting a play, Emery?"

Harding's face clouded. "It's no joke, Bruce," he said, gravely. "How did you find out—about Audrey, I mean?"

"From Jane Hall," said Kirby. "You know her?"

"Very well," Kirby sighed. "In fact, Emery, I am quite fond of her. I haven't the faintest idea what all this hocus-pocus is about, but if you really are in need of a capable lady guard for Audrey, you've found the right girl. She's a crack shot."

"Don't act so jocular about it," Harding snapped.

"Oh, sorry," Kirby said. "Something is really wrong, then?" "Something is very much wrong," said Harding. He lowered his voice. "Look here, Bruce, you've been a friend of mine for a long time, young as you are. Young as I am? I'll have you know, I'm thirty-four!"

"And I'm sixty-two. But that's beside the point. What I was going to say was that you've helped out the police numerous times with that mass of data you have packed away in your mind, and I thought you might be able to help me up here with this thing. Especially in case something happens."

"What do you mean? What could happen?" Harding bit his lip. "It may be pure bluff. And it may be real. Wait—I'll get the letter."

HARDING went to a desk across the room, unlocked the top drawer and extracted a white envelope from it. He returned and handed the envelope to Kirby, who opened it with interest.

"Come yesterday at noon," said Harding.

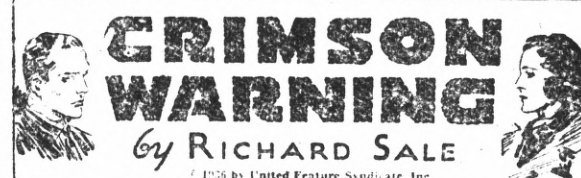

Kirby took a sheet of paper from the envelope and read:

Emory Harding, Most Honorable Sir: You have in your possession a ruby which is known as the Eye of Varamos. Possibly you are not aware of the significance of this name. This stone was stolen from a Sika temple on the island of Komodo in the Dutch East Indies. The Sikas worship the monstrosities of their ancestors, and this stone was the eye of one of the gigantic lizards which occupied a place in the temple.

The Sikas have traced this stone to you. They know you acquired it innocently, and they therefore give you this chance—through me—to return the Eye. If you only tell me that failure to do this bid may result in violence, perhaps murder. You have a daughter dear to your heart. Let this innocuous suffice.

A PLAY BY UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, INC.

Bruce Kirby, young curator of a New York museum, is flown by Fred Benet to the home of Emory Harding on Skeleton Island, off the coast of Maine. As they land in a cave, they barely escape with their lives, a speedboat in which Benet, who handles Harding's boats, is bringing a guest from the mainland—a girl, an old sea captain, Albert Sankey, owns Kirby and Benet ashore and, on their way to the house, they meet Drumm and the girl. Kirby is surprised to find that she is an old friend, Jane Hall, a girl detective attached to the New York police force. She explains that she has come to guard Harding's daughter, Audrey, whose life has been threatened.

KIRBY'S angular features furrowed into a deep scowl. "A threat on Audrey's life," he said. "That's odd. Harding didn't say anything about it to me..."

"Why would he?" said Jane.

close, but luckily nothing happened. As they reached the house, Benet caught up with them. He tipped his hat to Jane Hall and turned to Kirby.

"Dumm didn't see us," Kirby said.

"I know," said Kirby.

IN A MOMENT, the door to Emory Harding's house opened wide, and Ludwig, the household's major-domo and general factotum, stood before them. Kirby knew Ludwig—he had seen him often at Harding's home in New York. But Jane, having never seen him before, gaped.

Ludwig looked dead. His skin was painfully pallid and was stretched tightly across his cheek bones, giving him an emaciated, almost sinister appearance.

Jane stopped hurriedly into the house. Kirby followed her. Benet addressed Ludwig. "Tell Mr. Harding that Mr. Kirby and I are here," finished Benet.

"Mr. Harding is expecting them," Ludwig said in a guttural

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile isn't flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and are only makeshifts. A more powerful movement doesn't get at the cause. It just gets the bile out of the bowels. Little Liver Pills get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 50c.

Jane was startled by the man's emaciated, almost sinister appearance.

"He telephoned me this morning," said Kirby. "Said he had something of devilish importance that he wanted me to see. He sent the plane down for me."

"Oh," said Jane. "So it was you who nearly killed me in the boat when we came in?"

"It wasn't our fault!" said Kirby indignantly. "Why did that man Drumm ever take such a chance?"

"The flare you dropped blinded him."

"Well," said Kirby, "it was

W. C. T. U. NOTES

BY MRS. CARL W. LONGACRE
Although the frequency of drunken driving, as measured by police arrests of offenders, decreased in Rhode Island in 1935, the number of persons killed or injured in accidents in which drunken drivers were involved was the largest in the seven years for which dependable records are available.

Death and injuries in drunken driver crashes last year totaled 90, compared with 79 in 1934 and with 84 in 1931, the highest previous number.

Why there should be an increase in persons hurt by drunken drivers at a time when drunken driving arrests are decreasing is puzzling until the figures are examined. Such examination leads to the conclusion that drunken driving itself is not decreasing, but that the apparent decrease is due to failure of police to arrest many such drivers unless and until they are involved in accidents.

It was formerly police policy to arrest every drunken driver, regardless of whether he was mixed up in an accident. Gradually, the figures indicate, that policy has been modified. Every year since 1930 the proportion of drunken drivers arrested only after accidents had occurred has increased. In that year 31 per cent of the persons charged with drunken driving had been involved in an accident before their arrest. Since that time the percentage has grown uninterruptedly until last year 51 per cent—more than half—of the drunken drivers apprehended were taken into custody (1) after they had caused, or at least had been involved in, a crash.

The former policy was to get drunks off the road before they could run into something or somebody. Today apparently the policy is increasingly to let the drunk "get away with it" unless he does crash. The new policy—if it is a policy—is a "break" for the drunk driver, but it is something altogether different for the public and the public safety.

There is no greater menace than an alcohol-fuddled brain behind the steering wheel of a motor car. Greater tolerance of the use of alcohol should by no means be permitted to become greater tolerance of the person who drinks and drives.

The latter is and always will be dangerous, and it is the duty of the police to get him at the first opportunity, before he kills or maims himself or somebody else.

There ought to be more arrests of drunken drivers before accidents occur and fewer after they occur. When and if there are, there will be decidedly fewer accidents and fewer persons hurt. Police work with offenders of this type can and should be preventive as well as punitive—Providence (R. I.) Evening Bulletin.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Oxygen Tent Is Needed Early in a Case of Pneumonia

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

PNEUMONIA continues to be one of our most serious and fatal diseases. There are many forms and varieties and its severity varies from year to year. In spite of improved hospital and housing conditions the death rate remains about thirty per cent. As it attacks the young and the middle-aged to a great extent, it is therefore a serious menace to the active time of life. It may begin suddenly with a chill, fever, pain in the side, cough and the expectation of rusty or bloody sputum.

At other times it develops slowly, following a cold, sore throat or other conditions in the chest. A typical case with all the signs develops at once is rare. Usually there is a gradual rise in temperature, the breathing becomes more rapid, fever blisters develop, the face is flushed and the pulse rapid. Very soon the lips begin to turn blue, the skin of the face assumes a dusky hue, the finger and toe nails grow dark. The breathing is short and difficult and the patient is seriously ill.

Not Enough Oxygen

All this is caused by the filling up of lung tissue from congestion and serum produced by the inflammation, with resulting inability to secure sufficient oxygen to saturate the blood. The entire picture is one of lack of oxygen. The arterial blood of a healthy individual contains ninety-five per cent of oxygen.

In a pneumonia patient who has become blue, the saturation of the blood may be as low as seventy-five per cent. This leads to a poisoning of the entire blood stream, with consequent poisoning of every organ in the body. The brain becomes poisoned, and the patient grows delirious, the kidneys fail to function properly, the stomach, intestines, liver and heart are all affected.

The heat beats more violently, the breathing becomes more rapid, shallow and difficult. The fever rises due to the toxemia, nausea and vomiting occur and the patient gets weak and faint. If not relieved, unconsciousness, heart failure and death will occur. The mountain sickness due to high altitudes and carbon monoxide poisoning are caused by the same thing: lack of sufficient oxygen to overcome the poison and due to its deficiency. Fresh air is imperative.

Some years ago it was a common practice to open all the windows or to place the patient out of doors regardless of how cold it was. This was a mistake. Warm air contains as much oxygen as cold air and does not use up the patient's strength fighting the cold. We frequently hear the remark that "Mr. Blank is going to die; they have been giving oxygen." That is the trouble. We delay giving oxygen till all else has failed and that is our great mistake.

The Quick Treatment

The giving of oxygen should be begun as soon as the patient shows any lack of it. The more the lungs become obstructed and the blood deprived of oxygen, the greater the difficulty in correcting the condition. One great reason for the delay is the lack of time, also the oxygen. The tent which is to be placed over the patient's head and shoulders while oxygen is supplied to it from a tank, is ideal. They are expensive and a delirious patient must be watched constantly or he gets out or fears to pieces.

The oxygen room is so expensive that only the very wealthy can benefit by it. Dr. Herber Barker of the Northwestern University Medical School has devised a method by which oxygen can be given directly to the lungs through a tube fastened in the nose. It works well and is comparatively cheap, but a large amount of oxygen must be given. It should be started within six to ten hours of the onset of the disease and continued as long as there is oxygen hunger.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "Please tell me how to serve boiled potatoes cooked their skins—D. S."

ANSWER: Potatoes boiled their skins should be served as side dish. The guest then peels the potato into this dish, and conveys the skinned potato to the dinner plate before him to be eaten.

QUESTION: "May a small diamond cigarette case be placed on the table when dining formally?"—Miss Y

ANSWER: Either one may keep the case on the table. One does, however, put such accessories on the table when the table is set. Then they are to go and napkin on one's lap.

Profiles For Today

An Author Who Was Newspaperman

By TALBOT LAKE

MARC CONNELLY, just returned to New York from Hollywood after directing the screen version of "The Green Pastures," his stage success which has been called the modern "Ben Hur," was born in McKeesport, Pa., and began his career as a newspaper reporter.

His actual name is Marcus, but he chose to adopt the shorter "Marc," by which he was called as a boy and as a young newspaper man in Pittsburgh.

Many for a time was the press agent for the Pittsburgh Athletic Club and while in that job he wrote his first show, a piece given by amateurs as a benefit and called "The Lady of Luzon."

Getting impatient with his Pittsburgh career, Connelly went out for New York, where he later collaborated with George Kaufmann, also a former Pittsburgher, in a number of plays. This partnership was amicably dissolved and both playwrights went "on their own," both achieving success in their own ways.

Marc Connelly, a tall, slender and handsome man, has been in his years of newspaper work and can be counted upon to do the unpredictable. He had a hard time getting a producer for his Negro play, "Green Pastures," and a number of theatrical people passed it up. But he persisted and the story of the play's success, together with that of the late Richard Harrison as "De Lawd," have become an American legend.

Give the Boy a Camera

Spring is the best time to encourage the small boy with the hobby of photography. At small cost a mere camera, which will cart him off water, of course, he can have a better machine, perhaps a camera.

So many men express their leisure in photography, exhibiting here and there, that it is well to attract a boy with this hobby while he is at the impressionable stage.

Office Kit Helps Girls To Beauty

By JACQUELINE HUNT

YOU wouldn't think of going to a bridge party or to a dance with a hasty film of make-up patting on over that you have worn for several hours! And yet most of you do that very same trick while you are shopping or sitting at your desk in your office.

It is such careless habits as this that account for the many cases of blackheads and enlarged pores. By using new make-up over old, you force the soiled rouge, powder and accumulated dust into the pores of your skin and seal them in with the fresh application—and then you ask why you cannot get rid of your blemishes!

Of course it is impossible for you to return to your home every three or four hours for removing and renewing your make-up. It is impossible to carry a complete assortment of cosmetics with you. But you can buy a small tube of your favorite brand of cleansing cream and carry it.

It is wrapped in several fresh cleansing tissues, in your bag along with your compact and lipstick.

The best kind of compact for the busy woman is one which contains a paste rouge and a compact powder—the same powder that you ordinarily use for making up your skin. Buy a pack of the inexpensive little compact puffs, too, so you can use a fresh one when you set out from home in the morning.

With this simple equipment you can give your face a quick but thorough cleansing in any washroom. Pin your hair out of the way, use at least two applications of the cleansing cream. After the second sized jar of cream has been wiped off, splash your face with cold water. Pat gently with a fresh tissue and apply your rouge and powder. You will find your skin is just moist enough and enough of the cream remains to make your powder go on smoothly and evenly.

Touch up your lips with rouge or lipstick and blot away the excess with your least soiled tissue and you will be just as fresh and charming as when you left home earlier in the day. Oh, yes, you may need a few light strokes of an eyebrow pencil to give your face a clean-cut appearance!

If you work in an office it is well to keep a more complete assortment of beauty aids. Have a fairly good sized jar of cleansing cream or a cleansing lotion, tissues, a bottle of skin tonic, astringent or powder lotion for summer, a cake of soap, a soft cloth towel, some of the little cotton squares and a good hand lotion.

A really well-equipped office beauty kit will enable you to accept dinner and theater engagements without having to dash home to clean up.

Some girls also like to have a pair of fresh hose, a gay scarf or buttonhole to brighten their business costumes for informal evening wear.

If you make a practice of going to your office you will probably want to include a tiny manicure set and eye make-up in your beauty box.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I have a very bad habit of biting my fingernails. I would like to know how to stop it, since it causes me a great deal of embarrassment and I am ashamed of my nails.—Mary Louise."

Nail biting is sometimes caused from nervousness. Try to correct this and you will not find it so difficult to break the nail biting habit. More rest and sleep, outdoor exercise and plenty of nourishing food are recommended for curing nervousness.

Try to make your nails so pretty with one of the new shades of nail polish that you are reminded to leave them alone every time you look at them.

If pride doesn't break you of the habit, there is a nasty tasting liquid for your fingernails, that will.

QUESTION: "I have suffered from acne for eight years. Ever place where there has been a pimple, I now have a little bluish scar and my face is a sight. Is there some way I can remove these?"—Mrs. A."

Have you had a conference with your doctor? Surely he can find something to help you cure this distressing disease. One girl I know, who had a long-standing case of acne, has nearly completely cleared her skin by eliminating her diet. Fresh fruits, salads, baked and raw vegetables and other small servings of meat, fish and poultry are recommended.

Read, potatoes and sweets from her diet. Fresh fruits, salads, baked and raw vegetables and other small servings of meat, fish and poultry are recommended. You would have medical advice before attempting such a diet, however. You will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I will send a leaflet on the treatment of acne.

Something in White Silk

This is Kay Francis, an example of the woman who has retained beauty and youth through a long screen career. This unique costume in white silk may suggest something to the woman who has followed Miss Francis' activities as a picture actress. The flowered decoration on the décolletage is one of the important style notes of 1936.

This Year's Bridge Luncheons Should Have Zest and Substance

By JUDITH WILSON

DO YOU wonder what to serve at your next bridge party? If you follow the advice of ten popular young hostesses from smart suburban communities, you will serve something substantial. Hot dishes are the most popular, whether the occasion is a bridge luncheon, tea or merely a friendly get-together for a few rubbers in the evening. No dainty tidbits these days! Bridge players work up real appetites!

If you do not serve a hot main dish, then have a substantial salad of meat, fish or fresh fruit and vegetables. Dessert can be colorful and dainty if you want them that way but be sure that they, too, are satisfying enough for masculine tastes.

We've talked more Chinese than Spanish influence, but there has been a Spanish invasion and the bolero suit is one of its best expressions. That and the sailor. Don't forget the capes, too, have a Spanish background.

The plicated skirt, both accorquon and suppleated, continues to animate the scene, but I want you to watch out for the pleated wrap, which, according to some authorities, promises to be the evening wrap for summer.

Since it is a mere wisp of tulle or chiffon, don't count on it to keep warm. Both in sleeveless versions, cape and long-sleeved versions, you will be interested. The circular length—also of tulle, is another midsummer night's dream.

In passing let me mention that braiding is one of the best kind of treatments to give your summer ensemble. For instance, a navy blue boucle suit, beautifully flat, had a knuckle-length cape completely covered with soutache and two hands of it on the skirt.

tablespoons sherry and pour the sauce over the chicken. Garnish with sprigs of parsley or pieces of glazed fruit. Serves 12.

Bananas au Rhum

Allow 1 or 2 bananas for each person, depending on the size. The bananas should not be too ripe. Peel them and place in a shallow, liberally with melted butter and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Broil 6 minutes or until delicately browned. Garnish with orange slices and serve very hot with rum sauce made as follows:

Mix 1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch thoroughly. Add 2 cups boiling water and cook until the mixture is clear at the bottom. Add 1/2 cup rum and enough vegetable coloring to give a delicate pink shade.

Blend 3/4 cup shortening and 1/2 cup sugar, add 1/2 cup molasses and set in a warm place about 10 minutes. Beat thoroughly, then add 1 cup sour milk and 2 slightly beaten eggs. Stir well. Sift together 2 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon each salt, soda, nutmeg, cinnamon and 3 teaspoons ginger. Add to the first mixture. Beat until well mixed and bake in 10-inch square pan that has been greased and lined with waxed paper. Bake 100 and cut into halves. For the filling, mix 1 cup raisins, 1/2 cup dried apricots and 1/2 cup dates, chopped fine, with 1/2 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix 2 tablespoons cornstarch with 1/2 cup cold water and add to the fruit. Add 1 1/2 cups boiling water and cook until mixture is very thick. Well and spread between the layers of cake.

Cover the top with orange slices and sprinkle with confectionery sugar. Bake 10 minutes. The lace-like pattern is a negligee and style.

Difference in Age Does Not Mean Obstacle to Marriage

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

A CONSIDERATION for the viewpoint of one's parents, and a disinclination to break a promise are admirable qualities. Both are indicated in the following letter. The point involved is an interesting one, for, since this girl is so nearly of age and obviously means to marry the man of her choice after her birthday, it is drawing a fine line to wait until the birthday since, in any event, her parents will disapprove.

You and Your Child

Give the Little One a Chance to Meditate

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

THREE-YEAR-OLD NANCY is such a bundle of energy that her mother, who would like her to be able to sit still, is alarmed when she actually does.

On several occasions of late months has found the child sitting motionless and a p p a really oblivious to her surroundings. The other day, for example, it gave her a start to find her little girl sitting like that amid her toys.

"What are you thinking of, Nancy?" she asked. The child replied, "Nothing," mechanically, and resumed her passive state. "Don't you feel well?" "I feel all right," "Then, here, Nancy. Take your scissors and your cut-outs. Play. Don't sit around doing nothing. It isn't good for you."

Shaking her head, Nancy refused the offer. She behaved like a sleepy child not yet fully aroused. And instead of leaving her alone, mother tried to tempt her into playing with this toy and that. Succeeding finally in making Nancy aware of what she expected, mother was rewarded by an irritated, "Leave me alone," from the child.

This was more like it! Now Nancy was being her usual spirited self again. She voluntarily picked up a toy train and worked the wheels energetically back and forth across the floor. Mother had accomplished her end. Then, out of the clear sky, Nancy asked, "Mother, how much does money cost?"

While Nancy sat lost in a trance, she may have been pondering that question. A child needs time to think. Unless a child is obviously bored or ill, mother is wise to leave him alone during such lapses into repose. "What are you thinking of?" is not a help, as the child is not apt to be aware of a thought process.

SACRAMENTO, April 18—UP—Wholesale shifts in political allegiance, especially during the last two years of the current "New Deal" era, made California a predominantly Democratic state in party registration today for the first time in its political history.

Official figures showed 1,887,288 persons registered as Democrats and 1,163,788 as Republicans for the May 5 presidential primary. Every one represented an entirely new registration, as old lists were scrapped on December 31 and every person who wished to vote in California this year was called upon to re-register.

MAYOR IS SENT TO JAIL OVER FINE OF $100

PITTSBURGH, April 18.—UP—Mayor William N. McNair, obdurate in a fight over "numbers" writing fines, went to the Allegheny county jail today rather than appear before an alderman and defend himself on charges of "embezzlement by a public officer."

McNair remained in jail, whistling and refusing efforts of friends to make him appear for trial. He was held before Judge Joseph A. Rich, alderman, who signed a writ of habeas corpus for him. The writ released the mayor on his own recognizance.

The warrant for the mayor's arrest was issued after Warren H. Vankirk, an attorney, charged the mayor with refusing to sign a warrant for repayment of a $100 fine which a court had ordered remitted. The warrant was based on an act of 1930.

McNair also was charged with non-attendance in office, as was the City of Pittsburgh. Warrants on that charge will be served on all members of the city council next Monday, Vankirk said.

McNair refused pleas of the constables, who served the warrants that he appear before Alderman John J. Verona or post bond.

"I'd rather go to jail," he said, and went escorted by the constables and by two city policemen whom he had summoned "to see that I get safely to jail, and am not taken down any dark alleys."

The mayor disturbed the constables with his refusal to appear before Verona. They pointed out repeatedly that all he had to do was to go up on "the hill" where Verona is a Republican leader or raise bond.

Notice of appeal was immediately given by District Attorney Francis P. Hestley and the action today takes the question to the court of appeals. Pending a ruling by that body Mrs. McCord is at liberty on $1,000 bail.

The motor coach was confined to the left front section. Shatter-proof glass on the coach prevented serious injuries to occupants.

There were 30 persons aboard the bus at the time and although several were severely shaken up by the crash, no one was fatally injured. It was reported that two women aboard the bus fainted, but were speedily revived.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins were taken to the hospital in the Ryan ambulance while the children were taken there by M. J. Ferguson, 583 Fifth street and W. M. Smith, of 464 Fourteenth street.

Local police and officials of the Eastbay Motor Coach Lines immediately launched an investigation into the cause of the accident.

Warren, in his report to company officials, stated that he was driving at a moderate rate of speed and was just starting down the incline to enter the subway. Hawkins, Warren said, was driving east at a moderate rate of speed and made a left hand turn. Warren reported that he applied his brakes but could not stop the coach in time to avoid the accident. He further stated that he could not swerve to the left to avoid hitting the machine or he would have crashed head-on with cars coming out of the subway. A concrete abutment on the right-hand side of the subway prevented him from turning to the right.

NO STATEMENT
Officer Hawkins was still in a dazed condition last night and as a result could give no statement to police as to the cause of the accident.

The policeman was off duty at the time of the crash. He and his wife and children had driven down town in the Hawkins family automobile to do their shopping and were returning home when the accident occurred.

Sees Prosperity Ahead For The Auto Industry

With the first quarter of the year over, there is every indication that the automobile industry has entered upon a new and greater cycle of prosperity, according to the Curry Auto Sales Co., Chrysler-Plymouth dealer here.

"While the Chrysler Corporation was the only single major manufacturer to register consistent sales gains during the six-year period between 1929 and 1935," declared Harry Curry of the local agency, "the present year promises to eclipse all past records."

He likened the present demand for motor cars to the rush of water flowing through the flood gates of a dam.

"With more money in circulation," he said, "the frozen demand of 1931, 1932 and 1933 is thawing out, and sales are mounting month by month. Last year showed a marked increase in production and sales throughout the industry and this year both will make still further advances."

It was pointed out that the automobile industry had made a substantial contribution to the nation's prosperity by holding automobile sales in the fall rather than in the spring, as heretofore. The change has largely ended the seasonal doldrums for labor, giving year-around employment both in the automobile industry itself, and in a number of allied industries furnishing materials for use in automobile manufacturing.

brings cheer to the sick, transports us to realms across the sea and brings into our homes the greatest symphonies, singers, stage stars and comedians in the world. I'll admit that my radio is a priceless gem, that I wouldn't be without one. I'll also admit that it's the privilege of every free, white, and 21 citizen to have in his possession a radio. BUT—can't something be done about people who turn on their sets full blast and then walk a block away to hear the program?

"The new radios are advertised to have from a three to a five watt output and judging from the manner in which some of our citizens turn on the volume control, the manufacturers of the sets were too modest in the rating of the aforementioned output.

Just walk down town one of these days and count the homes that you pass where the radios are turned on so loudly that they can be heard for half a block. Then, to complete your survey, live in a flat where the neighbors above you turn on their set at seven in the morning, "give her" everything the set will take and then go out into the yard to listen to the program. Just try to sleep through something like that and you'll realize right then and there that Job was a piker.

"With the political season coming on this situation is becoming worse. I suggest that you intimate to the city council that Tom Carlson formulate some kind of an ordinance that will make turning on a volume control more than half way a felony punishable by fine and imprisonment.

BARKING DOGS ANATHEMA

Next on my list is barking dogs. Once again I'll admit that the dog is man's best friend. But—who wants to hear canines yowling at the moon in the still hours of the morning?

AND CHOO CHOO

And next let's take the whistles on the Southern Pacific trains. You take 'em—I don't want 'em! Once more I suggest that you ask the city council to have Tom Carlson draw up an ordinance forcing the Espee to substitute musical chimes for the present steam whistles now being used. And have the ordinance provide that the chimes will play something sweet and soothing—say "Abide With Me" as the train nears the Barrett avenue crossing. "I could go on like this for hours and hours, enumerating causes of sleepless hours and jangled nerves. And so, I earnestly ask that you do something about the matter. Remember, whatever you do, I'm behind you. But don't ask how far behind you!"

Officials Give Final Warning

MARTINEZ, April 18.—Final warnings on two tax situations were given today by county officials.

Tax Collector M. M. Joost cautioned that Monday is the final day for payment of second installment taxes.

County auditor D. M. Teeter said that the county is also the final day for delinquent taxpayers to take advantage of the moratorium.

NEW BUM BLOCKADE

DENVER, April 18.—UP—Gov. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado today declared a state of martial law along a one-mile strip of the Colorado-New Mexico state line to prevent alien laborers from entering the State and usurping the jobs which natives of the State should have.

Johnson also indicated strongly that Britain would take no coercive action against Germany which might lead to war, but dropped a veiled intimation that the only sure solution of such a crisis as has now arisen would be joint action by all powers to threaten an aggressor with military sanctions.

Ethiopian peace efforts which constitute the Council without Italy, adopted a report of its chairman, Salvador de Madariaga of Spain, concluding that peace efforts have failed and referring the whole matter back to the Council itself.

The report was cautious in tone and did not blame either Italy or Ethiopia directly for the failure of the peace negotiations. It will be taken up at a special meeting of the Council on Monday, but there was no prospect of any strengthening of sanctions against Italy until the regular meeting of the Council next month, after the French parliamentary elections have been held.

Baldwin also indicated strongly that Britain would take no coercive action against Germany which might lead to war, but dropped a veiled intimation that the only sure solution of such a crisis as has now arisen would be joint action by all powers to threaten an aggressor with military sanctions.
